Shemot, 34:6*

יהוה, יהוה,
אל רחום וחנון,

ורב חסד ואמת.
שמות לד, ו

We have known one another for more than a year now and I have never told you who I am or why I decided to be a Rabbi.

I grew up in the Bet El Community of Buenos Aires, Argentina. My family was not religious, but traditionalist. We went to Temple sometimes and gathered for the holidays; we paid our annual fee to attend Rosh haShanah and Yom Kippur tefilot (services).

The Conservative Movement came to my country with an American Rabbi, Marshall T. Meyer Z"L who, with his wife, Naomi, moved from New York to Buenos Aires. They brought a new way to teach, interpret and understand Judaism. Marshall and Naomi had a son my age and it was with him and other boys that I participated in activities of the youth group. These consisted of tefilot for children and teens and other classes the couple shared with us.

I have always liked to sing and it seems that I did not do it too poorly, according to the opinions of those who listened to me during the different activities at school—especially my mother, who would not miss any of them. It was a comprehensive Jewish private school in which we divided the daily learning into 50% of the subjects in Spanish, 25% in English and 25% in Hebrew.

So, I grew up with the formal study of Hebrew and the informal study of Judaism in an environment that embraced discussion and dissent, while learning to sing the tefilot.

I took singing lessons after my Bar Mitzvah because I really enjoyed leading the tefilot and parashah that were assigned to me. I enrolled in a department of complementary Judaic studies for young people in the recently created Latin American Rabbinical Seminary that Rabbi Meyer had founded in Buenos Aires. In those years, many Rabbis that had been ordained there were hired in Argentina and all over Latin America.

I remember once, having finished one of the classes for young people at the Seminary, staying and speaking with Rabbi. He, in the course of that conversation, for some reason told me something that would profoundly mark my path:

"Gustavo, you have a lot to give to your people."

Sometimes as adults we say and do things without realizing the impact we have on people, let alone on a young person or on a child. I do not know if Rabbi Meyer was actually aware of it, but I remember his voice and his face when he told me that sentence. I would repeat it in my head countless times during my life—and also every time I doubted myself or had to overcome some obstacle with the understanding that maybe there was something in me that could add to the growth of the People of Israel.

Around the age of 20, I started the Pre-Rabbinical School in the same seminary and, since there was a shortage of Rabbis in Latin America, several students assumed tasks in different congregations under the guidance of experienced Rabbis.

I continued as a Cantor and the quasi-rabbinical assignments for almost 30 years, until I decided it was time to upgrade my studies and my career. In 2016, I registered at the Seminary once again with the manifest objective of becoming a Rabbi of Israel.

It was clear to me that it was not going to be easy. It required many hours of study and I had family obligations and, sometimes, personal choices do not go hand in hand with them. I had the support of my wife Vero (Veronica) and my three sons, Ezequiel, Dan and Alan. They always understood it was my desire and my vocation to assume this role and this duty.

With my studies almost finished, I started working here in Utica and decided to finish them at the Rabbi Agin Rabbinical School: Mesifita Adath Wolkowisk in Flushing, NY.

Finally, at the end of October of this year, I received my certificate of Rabbi of Israel. God willing, I will receive my Hasmachah in June of 2023. You are all invited to my ordination!

It is explicit to me that there is an enormous work to be carried out to strengthen our People of Israel. If I, from my humble place and with my meager might can add a grain of sand to it, then the words of Rabbi T. Meyer will have done their job of inspiring me to do so.

BS"D

R A B B I ' S W O R D

May God allow me to inspire in the same way those who I will have the opportunity to awaken and encourage with my words in my commitment to magnify and invigorate our People, our tradition, our Halachah, our Torah, seeking to improve this world in the Kingdom of God.

Thank you for accompanying me on this part of this beautiful pathway.

P R E S I D E N T ' S M E S S A G E

Happy 1st anniversary to us! It has been a year since we moved to 1607 and welcomed Rabbi Geier.

My sincere congratulations on Rabbi Geier receiving his Smicha!

After many years and loads of studying, his dream of becoming a Rabbi has come to fruition. His ordination will take place in June Page 9 in New York City. MAZEL TOV! We are so lucky to have you here in Utica.

During this year, we have begun Hebrew and Torah classes, celebrated Chanukah with the community by lighting the huge menorah in the garden, had fun at Purim with a speil and dinner at the JCC, enjoyed a Shavuot brunch with a study session, observed the High Holidays in the main sanctuary like in years past, decorated the pergola for a beautiful sukkah, welcomed each Shabbat on Friday night via zoom and in person with lively discussions on Saturday mornings.

Please consider doing a mitzvah on a Saturday morning by helping with a minyan so we can read from the Torah.

A Jewish community playgroup for 5-6 year olds will be starting this month at the JCC. It will consist of an hour of storytelling, crafts, food, songs and FUN learning about Jewish traditions! Keri Campbell will be leading the activities and Rabbis Geier and Schaktman will be involved as well. If you know children of this age group that would like to join, please let me know so we can include them in the group.

Thank you to David and Raina Goldbas for the inspiration! Thank you for your contributions of winter clothing. Rabbi delivered them to the clothing closet at the Plymouth-Bethesda Church. If you have more items to donate, please leave them at temple. Please join us on Monday, December 19th at 5:00PM to light the second candle of Chanukah on the huge menorah in the garden. We will celebrate with songs, hot chocolate and sufganiot!

Wishing you all health and happiness for 2023,

Marsha

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends,

How nice come December 18th we have another happy fun holiday to share. The first candle on the Chanukah Menorah will be lit.

We will celebrate Chanukah at home and at Temple. Chanukah is the Hebrew word for dedication – the Israelis are known as Modern Maccabees whose dedication and courage made possible the miracle of the Jewish State.

We celebrate this lovely festival by lighting the menorah for the eight nights of the festival, sharing gifts for the children, playing dreidel, loving the chance to eat lots of potato latkes, and in Israel we would enjoy the traditional sufganiot, jelly donuts that are sugared and sweet. It is a chance to review the story of the Maccabee's and the rededication of the Temple with the crude of oil expected to last one day that ended up lasting eight days.

Let all of us enjoy this holiday season with our family and friends. Let us remember to count our blessings for the good in our lives and the opportunity to bring good into the lives of others. We will do what Jews have always done, rededicate our-selves to do the best for others whatever the deed may be, it turns out that the return is far greater than the deeds themselves. A sweet and happy Chanukah to one and all.

SUFGANIYOT (Israeli Donuts) RECIPE

By Jennifer Segal

Sufganiyah...
(סופגניה, סופגנייה)
plural: sufganiyot

Is a round jelly doughnut eaten in Israel and around the world on the Jewish festival of Hanukkah. The doughnut is deep-fried in oil, filled with jam or custard, and then topped with powdered sugar. The doughnut recipe originated in Europe in the 16th century and known as a ponchik. The ponchik was brought to Israel by Polish Jewish immigrants, where it was renamed the sufganiyah and commemorated the miracle associated with the Temple oil.

Servings: 24

Prep Time: 30 Minutes

Cook Time: 15 Minutes

Total Time: 45 Minutes, plus 1 to 2 hours for the dough to rise

INGREDIENTS

- 1 cup warm water, heated to about 110°F
- 1 tbsps instant/rapid-rise or active dry yeast (this is more than 1 packet)
- 3 level cups all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup confectioners' sugar, plus more for coating
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 large egg yolks
- 2 tbsps vegetable oil, plus 2 quarts more for frying
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- About 1 cup jam or jelly (or custard, Nutella, pudding, pumpkin butter, apple butter, dulce de leche, etc.).

SUFGANIYOT (Israeli Donuts) RECIPE

By Jennifer Segal

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Combine the water and yeast in a small bowl and let sit until foamy, about 5 minutes.
2. Meanwhile, in a large bowl, combine the flour, confectioners' sugar, salt, and nutmeg. Whisk to combine and set aside.
3. Add the egg yolks, 2 tablespoons of oil, and vanilla to the water/yeast mixture and whisk with a fork until combined.
4. Add the liquid mixture to the flour mixture and stir until the dough comes together. It should be a bit sticky. Cover the bowl with plastic wrap and let the dough rise on the countertop until doubled in size, 1 to 2 hours.
5. Line a baking sheet with a few layers of paper towels. Line another baking sheet with parchment paper and dust heavily with flour. Generously dust a clean countertop and your hands with flour. Scrape the dough out of the bowl onto the counter and dust the dough with flour. Pat the dough into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick rectangle (it should be about 10 x 12-inches in size), making sure the bottom doesn't stick and adding more flour to the counter and your hands as needed. Using a pizza wheel or very sharp knife, cut the dough into 24 two-inch squares and transfer to the floured baking sheet, leaving a little space between the squares. Sprinkle the squares lightly with flour.
6. Add enough of oil to a large Dutch oven or heavy pot to measure about 2 inches deep and heat over medium heat to 350°F. Place 6 dough pieces in the oil and fry until golden brown, about 3 minutes, flipping halfway through frying. Adjust the heat, if necessary, to maintain the oil temperature between 325°F and 350°F. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the donuts to the paper towel-lined baking sheet. Repeat with the remaining donuts.
7. When the donuts are cool enough to handle, use a paring knife to puncture the side of each to form a pocket in the center. Place the tip of a squeeze bottle or piping bag into the pocket and squeeze 1 to 2 teaspoons of jam or jelly inside. 8. Using a fine sieve, dust the donuts generously with confectioners' sugar. Serve warm.
