Message from Cantor Socolof*Where'd Purim Go?

We celebrated Tu B'Shevat on January 25th. Since Shevat is the eleventh month on the Hebrew calendar, and Adar is the twelfth, it would be reasonable to expect that Purim would arrive sometime around the end of February. But this year, it is nowhere to be found until March 24th. What's going on?

What's going on is that this year we get a bonus! There are two months of Adar, and Purim is in the second. This begs two questions:

1. Why are there two months of Adar?
2. Why is Purim in the second one?

I will answer the second question first, as it is a shorter answer. When there are two months of Adar, we celebrate Purim in the second one so that Purim falls one month before Passover. Why, then, two months of Adar?

To answer properly, it will be necessary to have a short clinic on calendars. Most calendars are either solar or lunar. That is, they either base a year on the time it takes to make one transit around the sun, or the time it takes for twelve full cycles of the moon. The Hebrew calendar is primarily a lunar calendar, but this presents us with a difficulty. You see, twelve cycles of the moon takes about 354 days, so that the lunar year is shorter than the solar year. There are some calendars, most notably the Muslim calendar, that are strictly lunar, which is why Ramadan may fall at any time of the solar year. As Jews, though, we can't have that because the Torah specifies that Passover must be a spring holiday. That being the case, it just wouldn't do for it to fall in the summer, autumn or winter. In order to have Passover fall when it must, we need to bring it into better compliance with the solar year. To this end, we add a month seven years out of every 19. The numbers may seem rather arbitrary, but it works pretty well. The calendar as it is currently constituted shouldn't need any major adjustments for at least a thousand years or so. In fact, this is why your secular and Hebrew birthdays will tend to coincide (or be a day off) every 19 years.

5776 is the 19th year in the lunar cycle, and so is a leap year. Thus we add an extra month to make up for the missing days. The rabbis decided that the extra month would be an additional month of Adar, which is why we have two. The good news here is that Adar, being the month of Purim, is supposed to be a month of happiness and joy. Being a leap year, we get to enjoy a double dose. I hope that we will all get to experience a double dose of joy and happiness in these months of Adar.

Temple Beth El President's Message

As you read this piece, a post on Facebook by Michael J. Nadel of Toronto, please keep in mind that we really do need one another to survive.

In Crown Heights, there was a Jew, Yankel, who owned a bakery. He survived the camps. He once said, "You know why it is that I'm alive today? I was a kid, just ...a teenager at the time. We were on the train, in a boxcar, being taken to Auschwitz. Night came and it was freezing, deathly cold, in that boxcar. The Germans would leave the cars on the side of the tracks overnight, sometimes for days on end without any food, and of course, no blankets to keep us warm," he said. "Sitting next to me was an older Jew – this beloved elderly Jew - from my hometown I recognized, but I had never seen him like this. He was shivering from head to toe, and looked terrible. So I wrapped my arms around him and began rubbing him, to warm him up. I rubbed his arms, his legs, his face, his neck. I begged him to hang on. All night long; I kept the man warm this way. I was tired, I was freezing cold myself, my fingers were numb, but I didn't stop rubbing the heat on to this man's body. Hours and hours went by this way. Finally, night passed, morning came, and the sun began to shine. There was some warmth in the cabin, and then I looked around the car to see some of the other Jews in the car. To my horror, all I could see were frozen bodies, and all I could hear was a deathly silence.

Nobody else in that cabin made it through the night – they died from the frost. Only two people survived: the old man and me... The old man survived because somebody kept him warm; I survived because I was warming somebody else..."

Let me tell you the secret of Judaism. When you warm other people's hearts, you remain warm yourself. When you seek to support, encourage and inspire others; then you discover support, encouragement and inspiration in your own life as well. That, my friends, is "Judaism 101".

Many thanks to Irwin Rosen, Larry Marks, Warren Manning and Mike Silverman for stepping up to the bimah as lay leaders.

Thank you,
Marsha

Temple Beth El Executive Director's Message

Have you heard of stone soup? I have read the story many times and I think any time is a good time to share it with all of you. The following version came from the Syracuse Jewish Observer.

Once upon a time, somewhere in Eastern Europe, there was a great famine. People jealously hoarded whatever food they could find, hiding it even from their friends and neighbors. One day a peddler drove his wagon into a village, sold a few of his wares and began asking questions as if he planned to stay the night.

“Oh I have everything I need” he said. “In fact, I was thinking of making some stone soup to share with all of you.”

He pulled an iron cauldron from his wagon, filled it with water and built a fire under it. Then, with great ceremony, he drew three ordinary-looking stones from a velvet bag and dropped them into the water.

By now, hearing the rumor of food, most of the villagers had come to the square or watched from their windows. As the peddler sniffed the “broth” and licked his lips in anticipation, hunger began to overcome their skepticism.

“Ahh” the peddler said to himself rather loudly, “I do like a tasty stone soup. Of course, stone soup with cabbage – that’s hard to beat.”

Soon a villager approached hesitantly, holding a cabbage he’d retrieved from its hiding place and added it to the pot. “Wonderful!” cried the peddler. “You know, I once had stone soup with cabbage and a bit of salt beef as well, and it was fit for a king.”

The village butcher managed to find some salt beef . . . and so it went, through potatoes, onions, carrots, mushrooms and so on.

Finally, the peddler removed the stones from the cauldron and declared, “The stone soup is ready!” And the whole community joined in a feast where there was none before.

In the morning, the peddler left the village and the villagers never saw him again. But, before he left he gave them three stones.

The years passed. One by one the stones were lost, but strange and wonderful things happened without them. And they learned to help one another without making soup, even in hard times. That was the real miracle that the peddler left behind.

The moral of the story is that by working together, with everyone contributing what they can, a greater good can be achieved.

Whether it be our support of Temple Beth El financially. Attendance at minyans and services, enjoying holidays and festivals together – together is the key word. Please let us remember Stone Soup in all aspects of our life, so much good can be achieved by working as one to meet the needs of Temple, our community, our family and friends. Let us all enjoy and apply the lesson of stone soup as we carry on our daily lives.

Shalom,
Mundy

Helen and Jane

As you read this, we will have already observed the Sheloshim, or the thirty-day mourning period for two members of our community, Helen Sperling and Jane Agata. Helen was 95 and Jane was only 11 months. Helen lived through tragic times, while Jane was taken from our midst tragically and untimely.

Saturday, December 19th would have been Jane's first birthday. To celebrate her life, it was Random Acts of Kindness Day. The evening before, I attended the 6th grade family service. Of course, I was one proud grandparent watching my grandson. I usually sit in the back. I couldn't help but notice a young couple sitting across from me holding hands. At the end of the service, they quietly exited still holding hands. They were Jane's parents. What brave and caring people. They found enough inner strength to say Kaddish for their little girl. I was unbelievably moved.

Helen, on the other hand, lived to be 95. She touched thousands of lives both young and old. Helen and her daughter held a common bond that was not too pleasant. They were both called "Dirty Jew". It happened to Helen by her best friend in Poland and Fran in the 5th grade. When it happened to Fran, Helen embarked on a life long journey to educate as many people as she could about the Holocaust. I had the privilege of hearing Helen speak. I also had the opportunity to attend the first American Gathering of Holocaust Survivors with my mom and Helen. In a room full of survivors and 2nd generation children, I was unbelievably moved.

What is the common bond then between Helen and Jane? Helen taught us "Never Forget" and "Never Be A Bystander". Helen didn't hate. Jane didn't hate. Helen was a voice for 6 million who perished. Jane was a voice of a sweet innocent child. Both brought joy and laughter as well as tears to their loved ones and friends.

Etz Chaim he l'machazikim bo--it is a tree of life to those that hold fast to it. When G-d gave the Jews the Torah, he didn't give it to those that were the privileged elite, but rather he opened it wide for all the varied ranks of the people to see. (Tz'enah Ur'enah introduction). When we are laid to rest, we are all buried alike. A plain wooden box with wooden pegs and the same burial garments, whether a male or a female. When we received the Torah, it didn't matter if we were wealthy or poor, male or female, young or old. We were all alike. When we attend services, the Rabbi gives a speech, whether you are reform or ultra orthodox. Why? The rabbis are teaching us a Torah lesson. When we sit in synagogue, the sections are not marked wealthy or poor. We mingle together.

As a community we "mingle together" to mourn the loss of Jane and Helen. As a community we came together rich or poor to console each other and help each other get through the thirty-day mourning period. Now we must move on and perpetuate the memories of these two blessed people. They were not close in age and they did not know each other. Yet they have left us with lessons. The biggest lesson is do not hate. Jane left us with the thought of Random Acts of Kindness. Do it every day. It is as simple as saying "hi" to someone. Helen left us with "Never Forget". With the trouble the world is in today, we should "Never Forget" and we should "Never be a Bystander". In our technological world, there are apps for everything for our phones including reading a message from the Torah every day. Take on a new mitzvah. Smile at someone or say hi. Give charity. Throw that spare change in a charity box. This is an act of random kindness. If you see someone being bullied, don't stand there and laugh or be afraid, rather say, "How can I help you?". "Never be a bystander".

"TEAM" means together everyone achieves more. We are a small community. Learn from these two very different, but like individuals, Helen and Jane. May the memories that their families shared with them always be a source of comfort to them. It is time for us to heal. It is customary at the end of the thirty-day period to learn Torah. That is why we call it the "Tree of Life". We have several customs on Friday nights; two pertain to Helen and Jane. A husband always chants Ayshes Chayil to his wife. Helen was an Ayshes Chayil, a woman of valor. It is also customary for a father to bless his children. May G-d bless you and keep you. May G-d's face shine upon you and be gracious to you. May G-d treat you with kindness and grant you peace. Jane was a child. G-d has chosen to treat Helen and Jane with kindness and grant them eternal peace.
