Message from Cantor Socolof

Among the gems of wisdom I gleaned from my mother was this: —~~f~~“The only constant is change.” Everything is in motion, and we find that we often feel like Alice who is told by the Red Queen, —~~H~~“Here, you see, it takes all the running you can do, to keep in the same place.” While we may not resist change per se, our default expectation seems to be that change is probably not going to be for the better. So as we encounter change we are wary. Intellectually, we tell ourselves that change is necessary, but other parts of the brain gear up for fight or flight.

This provides some context for considering Jacob in the book of Genesis, which we complete for the year in the month of January. Jacob’s life is, by far, the most eventful of the patriarchs’. It calls to mind the ancient curse: may you live in interesting times. In fact, when Joseph presents Jacob to Pharaoh, Pharaoh asks Jacob: —~~b~~“How many are the days of your life?” This is a rather odd, if not rude, thing to ask someone you are just meeting. What would prompt such a question? The sages suggest that Jacob, who was already 130, looked even older. As explanation, Jacob says, —~~e~~“Few and evil have been the days of my life.” It wasn’t so much the years as the mileage.

Consider: Jacob had to run away from home to avoid being killed by his brother. He worked seven years to earn the wherewithal to marry Rachel, only to wake up the next morning to find he had married Leah. He worked another seven years for the right girl, and six beyond that to build his fortune. Rachel dies on the way back to his homeland. His daughter Dinah was raped by a local prince, and in retaliation his sons Simeon and Levi killed all the men of that city. He believed his favorite son, Joseph, had died of an animal attack at 17. If he were alive today, Jacob might very well be offered his own reality show.

Jacob's life circumstances were constantly changing, and usually not in a direction he would have desired. Yet he perseveres. He is given the name Israel because he has "...struggled with God and with people and has prevailed." Jacob starts as the tent-dwelling youngster who uses cunning and deceit to usurp his brother's blessing from their father. Over the years, he develops into the person from who our people take its name. This didn't happen because he had an easy life. It happened because he was familiar with difficulties and was constantly finding ways to overcome them. As Samuel Smiles observed, "If there were no difficulties, there would be no success; if there were nothing to struggle for, there would be nothing to be achieved." Or, as Ben Hei Hei says in the Pirke Avot, "According to the difficulty is the reward." The Aramaic word for difficulty is from the same root as the word tsuris, with which many of us are all too familiar.

Jacob's difficulties were necessary to his becoming the person he ultimately became. So, too, with us. As things change, we find ways to adapt to the change. This results in growth. Think of those who you respect or admire. Odds are good that these people have dealt with difficulties of various kinds throughout their lives. It is the struggle that has made them into people worth knowing and caring about.

Circumstances of change or difficulty are rife with stress. Those in them might be excused for not feeling grateful for the opportunity they represent. Nonetheless, we need to understand that change is both inevitable and necessary. All movement is relative. When it seems to us that everything is in motion, it may well be that we are the ones moving.

Temple Beth El President's Message

I received this from a friend and would like to share it with you. I cannot find the author.

I dreamed that I went to Heaven and an angel was showing me around. We walked side-by-side inside a large workroom filled with angels. My angel guide stopped in front of the first section and said, "This is the Receiving Section. Here, all petitions to God said in prayer are received."

I looked around in this area, and it was terribly busy with so many angels sorting out petitions written on voluminous paper sheets and scraps from people all over the world.

Then we moved on down a long corridor until we reached the second section.

The angel then said to me, "This is the Packaging and Delivery Section. Here, the graces and blessings the people asked for are processed and delivered to the living persons who asked for them." I noticed again how busy it was there. There were many angels working hard at that station, since so many blessings had been requested and were being packaged for delivery to Earth.

Finally, at the farthest end of the long corridor we stopped at the door of a very small station. To my great surprise, only one angel was seated there, idly doing nothing. "This is the Acknowledgment Section," my angel friend quietly admitted to me. He seemed embarrassed. "How is it that there is no work going on here?" I asked.

"So sad," the angel sighed. "After people receive the blessings that they asked for, very few send back acknowledgments."

"How does one acknowledge God's blessings?" I asked.

Temple Beth El President's Message

"Simple," the angel answered. Just say, "Thank you, Hashem."

"What blessings should they acknowledge?" I asked.

If you have food in the refrigerator, clothes on your back, a roof overhead and a place to sleep, you are richer than 75% of this world. If you have money in the bank, in your wallet, and spare change in a dish, you are among the top 8% of the world's wealthy, and if you get this on your own computer, you are part of the 1% in the world who has that opportunity.

If you woke up this morning with more health than illness, you are more blessed than the many who will not even survive this day.

If you have never experienced the fear in battle, the loneliness of imprisonment, the agony of torture, or the pangs of starvation... You are ahead of 700 million people in the world.

If you can attend a temple without the fear of harassment, arrest, torture or death you are envied by, and more blessed than, three billion people in the world.

If you can hold your head up and smile, you are not the norm, you're unique to all those in doubt and despair.

"Ok," I said. "What now? How can I start?"

The Angel said, "If you can read this message, you just received a double blessing in that someone was thinking of you as very special and you are more blessed than over two billion people in the world who cannot read at all."

Have a good day, count your blessings, and if you care to, pass this along to remind everyone else how blessed we all are.

Shalom,
Marsha

Temple Beth El Executive Director's Message

Dear Friends,

After writing a bulletin article for more than 20 years, as I approach the new secular year 2017 I am finding it difficult to come up with something that is new and interesting.

I have given it much thought and decided to look through some books I have about Jewish wit and wisdom.

Following are a few of the many words of wit and wisdom that I enjoyed.

A Rabbi ordered his sexton to assemble ten men for a minyan to chant psalms for the recovery of a sick man. When they entered, a friend of the Rabbi complained that one of the men was a notorious thief. —Excellent," said the Rabbi; —when all the Heavenly Gates of Mercy are closed, it requires an expert to open them."

As I'm sure in other words our parents surely said this to all of us. —What so ever thy hand finds to do, do it with all our might" - Ecclesiastes. To this day it is a good rule to follow.

We are all aware of the Sabbath, I have

Temple Beth El
Executive Director's Message

always thought it felt different and special, but this is much more explicit. —On the Sabbath a man should always walk with an easy and leisurely gait. But to do a good deed, a man should always run, even on Sabbath” — Joshua ben Levi.

Where there is no bread, there is no education, if there is no education there is no bread”, from Ethics of the Fathers. We must have food for thought, and use it to provide the bread, for a successful tomorrow.

We must all remember these words of Hillel —“Who does not increase knowledge, decreases it”. I hope you enjoy these thoughts from our history. Let us all have a New Year of good health, happy, content days, and new learning. It will benefit us, our Temples and the future.

Shalom,
 Mundy

Think about Monument Cleaning in the Spring

This past year we cleaned many headstones and footstones. Our cemetery is beginning to look well cared for but has a long way to go. We plan to schedule our next cleaning as early as possible in the spring. There have been many requests since the last cleaning. Please schedule cleaning your family monuments.

COST

- Headstones $50.00
- Footstones $35.00

Please call the Temple office or simply mail or bring in a check and a note with the information about what you want cleaned.

Let us keep the Temple Beth El Cemetery looking beautiful.
